GROUNDBREAKING TO BE HELD FOR COURTHOUSE EXPANSION

RIGBY, ID, October 27, 2017 – Jefferson County officials will begin the construction of a $4 million annex building at a ground breaking ceremony at 1 p.m. November 1, 2017. The construction site is to the immediate south of the existing courthouse.

The Jefferson County Board of Commissioners recently awarded the construction contract to DL Beck, of Rexburg. It is expected the project will take approximately 18 months to complete, and provide much-needed space in the growing county. The building will house several departments and centralize offices that are now scattered in locations around Rigby.

In addition, the two-story annex building will feature an assembly room for large meetings and space for expansion in an unfinished basement. The building will be paid for with existing funds and payment in lieu of taxes from the federal government. There will be no tax increase to fund the project.

The contractor, commissioners, and NBW architects will gather following the groundbreaking for a pre-construction meeting.
